Document status: compositional and performance reference

1. Score Status and Performance Reference

This dossier accompanies the accepted GENESIS Theatrical Pass 14R4. The “Conductor Performance Score” is the principal notation and performance-reference edition, integrating the complete orchestral notation with numbered verse references, bilingual underlay, quantitative scansion and accepted performance timing.

The work contains 544 stable numbered verses and has an overall performance duration of 67:54.74. Verse numbers and absolute performance times serve as the primary rehearsal references throughout this dossier.

- Conductor Performance Score: 132 pages; principal notation and performance-reference edition.
- Breathing is left to musical phrasing, written rests and the available verse timing rather than prescribed as a fixed stopwatch interval.

2. Sound World and Compositional Premise

“GENESIS” inhabits a monumental symphonic-electronic ritual sound world: slow harmonic masses, open fifths, modal centres, brass pillars, choral fields, deep percussion, aulos-like double reeds and sustained electronic spectra. The work is not organized as song-form; it proceeds as a sequence of large dramatic fields with distinct local identities.

Repetition is structural and ritual rather than pop-form repetition. Cells return in altered register, density, harmony and instrumentation as the cosmology develops. The opening remains the primary cosmogonic signature; later episodes and stasima retain their own recognizable harmonic and orchestral behaviour.

Prosody informs rhythm without mechanically dictating every instrumental attack. Long quantities suggest temporal weight, short quantities permit motion, and ambiguous quantities may contract or expand according to phrase balance. Word accent, caesura and dramatic punctuation influence local placement.

3. Leitmotif and Harmonic System

Motif	Pitch identity	Dramatic / orchestral use
Genesis / Matter	D-A-E-F-D	Open fifth, compressed second and return-to-origin gravity; strings, horns and electronic mass.
Moon / Selene	A-C-D-F-C	Rising minor-third/second contour and suspended fall; lunar witness and upper reflections.
Necessity	E-F-B-E-A	Semitone plus tritone axis; horn-centered, rigid and impersonal rather than villainous.
Life	D-E-F-A-G-F-E-D	Stepwise growth with one opening leap; increasingly kinetic and mutable.
Death	B-C-F#-F-B	Low semitone/tritone adjacency and static spans; low brass, bassoon and low choral mass.
Memory / Prometheus	E-B-C-Eb-B-G-E	Fifths as continuity, chromatic mutation as inherited change; clarinet, strings, later brass.
Hope	A-C-E-D-F#-E-C	Upward triadic reach interrupted by modal color; luminous without conventional closure.
Search / Saturn	D-A-E-B-F#-A-D	Chain of fifths opening outward; spatial widening in the final outward-search field.

4. Score Forces

Force	Type	Dramatic / orchestral function
Selene	Soprano	Lunar and prophetic contour; suspended intervals and upper-register clarity.
Gaia	Contralto	Grounded, descending contour with a dark modal centre.
Ananke	Mezzo-soprano	Narrow, law-like contour shaped by semitone and tritone pressure.
Thanatos	Bass-baritone	Low sustained spans and tritone adjacency; weight without caricature.
Prometheus / Stranger	Baritone	Continuity and fifth-based memory material; the two identities share one dramatic vocal colour.
Chorus of Nights	Mixed chorus (SA/TB)	Upper and lower choral bodies used for strophic response, dirge, whisper and spectral fields.
Strings	High and low strings	Sustained harmonic mass, propulsion, pizzicato evolution, col-legno accents and sul-ponticello colour.
Woodwinds	Flute, clarinet, bassoon	Air, lyrical motion, memory colour and organic counterweight.
Aulos-like double reeds	High and low double reeds	Primitive and ritual colour; a theatrical timbral analogue rather than a historical reconstruction.
Brass	Horns, trumpets, trombones	Structural pillars, proclamation, pressure and tectonic/cadential weight.
Harp	Harp	Resonance, articulation and transitional lattice.
Percussion	Timpani and low percussion	Structural pulse, impact, rupture and irreversible-event marking.
Electronic / spectral layer	Harmonic field	Scale, continuity and depth in support of the acoustic orchestra.

5. Prosody and Rhythmic Treatment

The score is grounded in the supplied quantitative scansion. Long quantities carry greater temporal weight than short quantities, while ambiguous quantities may contract or expand according to local phrase balance. The resulting rhythmic language follows the text rather than forcing the libretto into a uniform metric grid.

Vocal contour and phrase shape are guided by the relevant leitmotif, dramatic register, word accent, caesura and punctuation. Quantitative metre therefore remains audible as a structural influence without becoming a mechanical syllable-to-attack transcription.

6. Orchestration and Performance Notes

The orchestral texture should remain symphonic-electronic and ritual rather than cinematic by default. Brass is structural rather than continuous; percussion marks irreversible events; sustained harmonic fields provide scale without obscuring the acoustic attack.

Choral writing is treated as a dramatic body. Strophe and Antistrophe should retain rhetorical and registral responsion without being forced into mechanical identity; consonants should coordinate cleanly while sustained vowels preserve resonance.

Tempo and timing indications establish the large-scale pulse. Local rubato is appropriate at phrase boundaries, caesurae and scene transitions, provided that the larger dramatic trajectory remains perceptible. Irregular groupings should be conducted as musical phrases rather than as bare arithmetic.

9. G01-G14 Musical Cue Map

G01-G14 are stable musical addresses used for rehearsal and structural reference. Each cue identifies a distinct orchestral, harmonic or motivic field and complements, rather than replaces, the Greek dramatic headings.

Cue	Title	Verses	Start	End	Dur.	Mode / centre	Dramatic objective
G01	Lunar Invocation	1-29	00:00.00	03:39.00	03:39.00	D Phrygian / open fifths	Cosmogonic identity; lunar witness; concentrated opening field.
G02	Impact and Birth of the Sea	30-70	03:39.00	07:13.00	03:34.00	C Phrygian	Collision rupture; matter becomes sea; ritual impact chorus.
G03	First Bonds - Necessity	71-145	07:13.00	16:32.00	09:19.00	E Dorian	Law and constraint emerge from interaction rather than decree.
G04	Seed of Life	146- 187	16:32.00	21:45.42	05:13.42	D Dorian	Replication, mutation and persistence; organic choral field.
G05	Death Appears	188- 217	21:45.42	26:12.60	04:27.18	B Aeolian / tritone axis	Death as a condition of life; sparse, cold and inevitable.
G06	Mother and Tomb	218- 254	26:12.60	30:49.22	04:36.62	F Dorian	Maternal and funerary images fused into one choral body.
G07	Life Leaves the Sea	255- 281	30:49.22	34:41.48	03:52.26	G Dorian	Kinetic expansion beyond the sea; consciousness approaches.
G08	Memory Before Mind - Prometheus	282- 375	34:41.48	46:03.22	11:21.74	E Aeolian / chromatic memory	Continuity, inheritance, fear, culture and Promethean identity.
G09	Astrophic Song - The Body as Bond	376- 392	46:03.22	48:13.31	02:10.09	D Aeolian	Body, lineage and time as the true bonds; non- strophic bridge.
G10	Blind Hope / Tomorrow	393- 417	48:13.31	51:20.64	03:07.33	A Dorian	Pressure chamber opening into the Tomorrow breakthrough.
G11	Fire, Word, Number, Song	418- 460	51:20.64	56:46.00	05:25.37	C Mixolydian	Civilization crystallizes; responsional chorus and engineered epode.
G12	Humanity	461-	56:46.00	61:29.87	04:43.87	E Mixolydian	Spaceward inquiry,

Cue	Title	Verses	Start	End	Dur.	Mode / centre	Dramatic objective
	Looks Outward - Cronus/Titan	493					probe imagery and retained primitive trace.
G13	Return to the Source	494- 520	61:29.87	64:40.13	03:10.26	D Dorian	Exodos dialogue, strophe and antistrophe recombine earlier identities.
G14	Final Epode - First Imitation	521- 544	64:40.13	67:54.74	03:14.61	D major add2 / suspended fourth	Drawdown, first imitation, final triptych and unresolved low C.

10. Cue-by-Cue Composition and Performance Notes

G01 — Lunar Invocation — 00:00.00 to 03:39.00 (03:39.00)

Primary identity statement. The opening establishes the work's monumental cosmogonic scale: concentrated, epic and ritual in character, with the later Prologue broadening the same material into the transition toward the Parodos.

G02 — Impact and Birth of the Sea — 03:39.00 to 07:13.00 (03:34.00)

Impact and sea-birth field. Percussion marks irreversible collision rather than supplying a continuous groove; choral rhetoric turns rupture into emergence.

G03 — First Bonds - Necessity — 07:13.00 to 16:32.00 (09:19.00)

Necessity should feel lawful rather than sinister. Horn pillars and low strings sustain dialogue; continuity matters more than constant punctuation.

G04 — Seed of Life — 16:32.00 to 21:45.42 (05:13.42)

The first life-chorus breathes organically. Strophe and Antistrophe answer one another; the Epode widens the frame. Small mutations of pitch, density and register suggest replication and error.

G05 — Death Appears — 21:45.42 to 26:12.60 (04:27.18)

Death is sparse, cold and inevitable. Bass register carries semantic weight while the upper texture remains thin enough for exposed delivery.

G06 — Mother and Tomb — 26:12.60 to 30:49.22 (04:36.62)

Mother and tomb form one structural image. Upper and lower chorus should sound like one body split by register. Rocking or breathing motion is preferable to dead space.

G07 — Life Leaves the Sea — 30:49.22 to 34:41.48 (03:52.26)

Life leaves the sea through asymmetrical forward motion. Register widens and rhythmic energy increases without becoming dance-like or stylistically foreign.

G08 — Memory Before Mind - Prometheus — 34:41.48 to 46:03.22 (11:21.74)

Major Promethean developmental field. Memory first appears as continuity rather than fanfare; recurring material remains recognizable as orchestration and intensity evolve through fear, naming, culture and inheritance.

G09 — Astrophic Song - The Body as Bond — 46:03.22 to 48:13.31 (02:10.09)

The astrophic song rejects literal repetition. Phrase lengths follow body, lineage and time imagery. Choir and low strings dominate; continuity matters more than bar symmetry.

G10 — Blind Hope / Tomorrow — 48:13.31 to 51:20.64 (03:07.33)

Dialogue acts as a pressure chamber. Frozen brass and woodwind pressure remain controlled through the confrontation; the final measures reverse suppression into the full Tomorrow release.

G11 — Fire, Word, Number, Song — 51:20.64 to 56:46.00 (05:25.37)

The most engineered choral block. Strophe and Antistrophe are registral counterparts; Epode adds dry invention-signals and irregular pulse. The vacuum reduction is a filtering event, not a long empty gap.

G12 — Humanity Looks Outward - Cronus/Titan — 56:46.00 to 61:29.87 (04:43.87)

Cold and spatial without generic science-fiction pastiche. Launch threshold, outer-system silence, frozen probe colour, retained metallic trace and deep bends articulate the outward-search field.

G13 — Return to the Source — 61:29.87 to 64:40.13 (03:10.26)

The Exodos return recombines earlier identities without literal quotation. Dialogue opens into the paired Strophe and Antistrophe, whose symmetry is rhetorical rather than mechanically duplicated.

G14 — Final Epode - First Imitation — 64:40.13 to 67:54.74 (03:14.61)

The final Epode removes kinetic urgency. Geological drawdown, first imitation, heartbeat extinction and liquid/spectral continuity end on the unresolved low C rather than a conventional cadence.

11. Vocal, Choral and Bilingual Underlay

Every numbered verse has a locked triplet: syllabified Ancient Greek, syllabified English and quantitative scansion. The Conductor Performance Score prints the same triplet in the upper margin and labels each corresponding blue performance span by verse number.

- Solo delivery is primarily syllabic. Melisma is reserved for structural words, transitions or deliberate expressive expansion.
- Choral responsion is preserved through proportional rhythm, register, colour and phrase shape rather than forced mechanical identity.
- Breath marks are not assigned as stopwatch events. A professional singer is expected to place breath within the available slot, written rests and phrase structure.
- When a verse crosses a score-page boundary, inactive syllable-units are struck through on the page where they are not sung, making continuation direction explicit.

12. Conductor Performance Score

The 132-page Conductor Performance Score combines the complete orchestral notation with numbered verse references, bilingual text, quantitative scansion and performance timing. It is intended as the principal conducting and rehearsal edition.

When several verses share a page, their numbered text is grouped clearly above the notation. Where a verse continues across a page turn, the inactive syllable portion is struck through so that the active sung segment and direction of continuation remain immediately clear.

13. Dramatic Sonification Map

The scientific imagery functions as a dramatic source for orchestration and large-scale pacing. These mappings are artistic transformations, not scientific evidence and not literal acoustic simulations of planetary processes.

Location	Scientific / dramatic function	Accepted musical realization
v.30	Grazing impact / 1.51×10^{31} J	Sparse maximum-velocity percussion and shock-shear contrast.
v.393-412	Steam blanket / cooling suppression	Ritual pressure field, frozen brass, woodwind air/microtonal pressure and col-legno rupture.
v.413-417	Radiative breakthrough	Exponential release into the full orchestral/wordless-choral Tomorrow event.
v.418-460	Nitrogen drag / civilization	Registral chorus handover, invention percussion, irregular Epode and vacuum/filter boundary.
v.461-493	Cronus/Titan / outer-system memory	Launch threshold, outer-system silence, frozen probe colour, retained metallic trace and deep bends.
v.494-544	Prebiotic ocean / return loop	Cyclic chorus, drawdown, heartbeat extinction, liquid final field and unresolved low C.

14. AI-Assisted Musical Development and Authorship Disclosure

The music of “GENESIS” was developed with substantial generative-AI assistance within an extended human-directed compositional workflow. AI systems assisted with compositional exploration, orchestration alternatives, timing analysis, score preparation, documentation and iterative drafting.

Chris Tsirkas is the sole human composer, author and project director. He defined the dramatic and musical objectives, supplied and revised the text, selected or rejected proposed musical material, evaluated successive audible renders, determined the accepted orchestration and pacing, and decides what is released.

AI systems are not presented as co-composers, performers or independent musical authorities. Generated or suggested material was not accepted automatically; the released score is the result of iterative selection, correction and approval under human direction. Responsibility for the final artistic artifact remains with the named human author.

The use of Ancient Greek metre and ancient-instrument colour is interpretative and theatrical. The score does not claim to reconstruct an historically recoverable performance practice of Greek tragedy.

15. Performance and Rehearsal Notes

- You may request the baseline computer-generated, rendered music of “GENESIS_Theatrical_Pass_14R4.wav” from the composer, at christos.a.tsirkas@gmail.com, as the playback and timing authority. Other supportive files may be accessed at: <https://github.com/ChristosTsirkas/genesis-earth-hadean-titan-impact-model/tree/main/music>
- Use the “Conductor Performance Score” as the authoritative notation and performance-reference edition.
- Tempo and timing spans establish the large-scale pacing; local rubato and breathing should follow phrase structure, caesura and written rests without obscuring the dramatic pulse.
- Under dialogue, prefer a low harmonic/timbral substrate to arbitrary silence; full silence is a deliberate event.
- Brass is structural, percussion marks irreversible events, aulos lanes carry primitive/ritual colour, and electronics define scale without masking acoustic attacks.

Appendix A. Complete 544-Verse Bilingual Performance Register

The register provides the complete current Ancient Greek verse, complete English metrical translation and quantitative scansion for all 544 numbered verses, together with the accepted performance span, cue, dramatic location and speaker.
