This image displays a musical score for a 24-staff orchestra. The score is written in a key signature of one flat (B-flat) and includes a tempo marking of 64. The notation is complex, featuring a variety of musical symbols, including notes, rests, and dynamic markings. The score is organized into systems, with each staff representing a different instrument or section of the orchestra. The notation is dense, with many notes and rests across the staves. This page of musical notation is for a 20-part ensemble. The notation is organized into five systems of four staves each. The first system (measures 370-373) features a complex texture with many staves containing rests. The second system (measures 374-377) continues this texture. The third system (measures 378-381) introduces more active parts, including a prominent melodic line in the 19th staff. The fourth system (measures 382-385) shows further development of the musical ideas. The fifth system (measures 386-389) concludes the page with a final cadence. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, beams, and dynamic markings like 'f' and 'p'.

The image displays a musical score for a 24-staff ensemble. The score is divided into three measures by two vertical blue lines. The first measure contains complex musical notation for the first staff, including a treble clef, a key signature of one flat, and various note values and rests. The second and third measures contain rests for all staves. The score is written in a standard musical notation style with a key signature of one flat and a common time signature.

The musical score for measures 939-942 features a variety of instruments. The strings (Vcs., Vc., Cb.) and woodwinds (Hn., Tpt., Tbn., Bsn., Fl., Cl.) play significant roles, with the strings providing a complex texture. The percussion (Perc., She.) and vocal parts (Vo., Vimp.) also contribute to the overall sound. The score includes a variety of musical notations, including rests, notes, and complex textures in the strings and woodwinds.
